CITY SEWER SYSTEM TO BE IN OPERATION BY NOVEMBER

Big Pumping Stations On Bund Under Way

13 MILES LONG

Thousand Men On Job Every Day Now

The down town portion of Shanghai's new sewer system will be completed and in operation by November, according to information gleaned from various sources yesterday. By "down town" is meant that part of the city bounded by Soochow Creek, Thibet Road, Avenue Edward VII, and the Bund.

The two big pumping stations on the Bund, at the Peking and Soochow Road intersections, will be completed and equipped with pumps in six or eight weeks, and as these are the big jobs that must be finished before the sewers can be put in operation; it will be easy sailing after they are finished. In addition to these, there are two other pumping stations, one at Nanzing and Hanbury roads and one at Dixwell and North Szechuen roads.

The work of building the sewers is now nine months ahead of contract time, and at present approximately one thousand men are employed daily on the work. The cost of the work is being done at a figure considerably less than the estimates called for, running as low as 68 percent below the contemplated cost in some instances. In no case has the cost risen more than 3 percent above estimates.

In all, there will be about 13 miles of the system ready for operation in November. The mains are of concrete, and egg shaped, of the type that has been in successful use in Bombay and other cities for a score of years.

The system here is to be of the gravity and pump type, the fall into the pumping stations being by gravity. At each pumping station the sewerage will be pumped to a higher level, from which it will flow by gravity into the next station.

It has been learned, in connection with the opening of the system, that a minimum fee of $50 is to be charged for clearing obstructions from the piping in individual buildings. This will be done, it is said, to impress upon householders the importance of using all reasonable precaution to keep the pipes clear.

Sees Future War Over China's Coal

(Reuter Special Service)

London, July 16.—Mr. Robert Smillie, the President of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, speaking at Pontypridd today, said that they were told that there would not be another war but the greed of the capitalists might bring one.

There were coalfields in China, where it was possible to obtain more coal than Britain, Germany, France and America together could produce. War might come about that. Japan had her eyes on it and America said:

"No, thank you! I am not going to allow it."

People talked about international peace, yet the different countries were trying to beat each other in the most effective methods of wiping out the human race by aeroplanes, bombs and poison-gas.

Mr. Chan was fatally wounded and his companion received a slight bullet wound in the foot. The assailant escaped.

Mr. Chan died at noon yesterday. A suspect has been arrested. The murder is believed to have been prompted by political motives.

Eight Indicted As Gun-Runners For Irish

Col. Marcellus Thompson and submachine guns.

COLONEL Marcellus H. Thompson, vice-president and active head of the Auto Ordnance Co. (at right) had been indicted, with seven others by a Federal Grand Jury at Trenton, N. J., charged with being involved in an attempt to ship nearly 500 sub-machine guns to the Irish Republican Army. The guns, with a large quantity of ammunition, were found in the coal bunkers of the freighter East Side when it was ready to sail for Europe. Colonel Thompson, a New York man, is son-in-law of Ambassador George Harvey and son of General John P. Thompson, U. S. A., retired, inventor of the gun.

70 POLES OUSTED BY WHITE GUARDS DESTITUTE HERE

Movement Is Launched To Provide Aid Temporarily

Deported from Vladivostok because they refused to fight in the army of the White Guards, seventy destitute Polish refugees arrived here Saturday. Temporarily, they are being quartered in a stable on the North Szechuen Road Extension, and efforts are being made by the Rev. Father Jacquinot of the Shanghai Catholic Circle, 21 Nanzing Road, to whom they appealed, to secure sufficient funds and clothing to care for them temporarily. There are a dozen children and fourteen women in the group. Their case will be taken up with the French Consulate-General.

Father Jacquinot has enlisted the assistance of Mr. L. Encarnacao and Mr. M. Rangel in the effort to provide for the refugees temporarily.

"All are in terrible need," Mr. Encarnacao said yesterday. "We have secured sufficient money to keep them barely alive for two or three days. Many of them are barefooted and have scarcely sufficient clothing to cover them. The children, particularly, need food and clothing."

Checks or cash for aiding in caring for the unfortunate men, women and children may be sent to Mr. Encarnacao at Messrs. Arnold Brothers and Company or to Father Jacquinot at the Catholic Circle. Clothing or food will be welcomed if sent to Mrs. Encarnacao, 22 North Szechuen Road.

Mr. J. E. Denham Going To England On Two-Year Leave

Among the passengers leaving for home today on the P. and O. S. S. Soudan are Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Denham of Peking. They intend to return to China in the autumn of 1923.

Mr. Denham came to Shanghai in 1896 as architect to the Shanghai Municipal Council. Since 1903, he has practiced on his own account here and in Peking, and has erected many important buildings in the outports.

Mrs. Denham's work in such branches of art as designing, scenic painting, illuminating and water color pictures, is well known in Shanghai and Peking and it may be expected that considerable interest may be taken in England in the small collection of typical paintings which she is taking with her.

PREPARATIONS ON FOR RE-OPENING OF U. S. COURT

Judge C. S. Lobingier Expected To Arrive From Seattle Week From Today

In expectation of the arrival a week from today of Judge C. S. Lobingier, who is expected on the Admiral Line steamer President Grant from Seattle, active preparations are going forward for the re-opening of the United States Court for China which has not functioned for nearly a year in which Judge Lobingier has been away.

Judge Lobingier's long absence in America grow out of charges that were filed against him with the Department of State by Mr. William S. Fleming and the outcome of a protracted hearing of those charges at Washington resulted in complete exoneration for Judge Lobingier.

Copies of the executive order issued by President Harding dismissing the charges together with a letter that was addressed to Judge Lobingier by President Harding were received recently by Mr. Stirling Fessenden. These are as follows:

EXECUTIVE ORDER

Dismissing the charges preferred by W. S. Fleming against the judge of the United States Court for China.

A full investigation of the charges preferred by W. S. Fleming against the Judge of the United States Court for China having been made are determined to be unfounded and are, therefor, dismissed.

The judge of the court is hereby directed to return to his post of official duty at the earliest practicable moment.

(signed) Warren G. Harding.

The White House, June 23, 1922.

The White House, Washington, June 23, 1922.

My dear Judge Lobingier:

I am enclosing herewith a copy of the Executive Order which disposes of the charges perferred against you as Judge of the United States Court for China. The record of the conclusion is filed with the Department of Justice. I trust you will make the earlist possible arrangements for your return to your post of duty and resume the sessions of the court. I should not be satisfied in sending you this notice if I did not say that in investigating the matter I have invited the fullest co-operation of the Department of Justice, and the decision is in accord with the views of that Department as I think to be becoming in view of its participation in the investigation.

I wish for you a safe return, and a record of progress in the courts which will cure as far as possible the delay incident to the filing of charges and the inevitable delay in reaching the decision which the enclosed Order conveys.

Very truly yours, (signed) Warren G. Harding.

Hon. Charles S. Lobinier, 1001 New Hampshire Avenue, Washington D. C.

Right Of U.S. To Extradite Questioned By Oregon Man Arrested Here On Steamer

David Lightner Alias D. L. Hibsman Nabbed By U. S. Marshal Porter On Warrant From Portland—Says He's British

The arrest here on Sunday of David Lightner, alias D. L. Hibsman who arrived on the Norwegian steamer Luise Nielsen and who is wanted in Portland, Oregon for alleged violation of the Harrison Narcotic Law, probably will result in having determined the question hitherto undecided of whether extradition from China to the United States and the reverse is possible. This seems in prospect as Lightner, who yesterday advanced a claim of British citizenship, has asserted that he will fight extradition. It is the first case on the kind on record in the American court.

While occasions having to do with the extradition of prisoners either from China to America or vice versa have arisen in the past, no legal proceedings have ever been pressed and no definite rulings have been handed down. It is believed that an authoritative decision on this question of extradition also will go far to clarify other questions having to do with the precise status of the United States Court for China and determine whether it is to function in the same manner that federal district courts function in the United States or whether it is an American extraterritorial tribunal governed by regulations differing from those governing federal district courts.

DISCOUNTS ACCUSED'S CLAIM

It is thought unlikely that Lightner's claim to British protection, advanced yesterday when he was given a preliminary hearing before U. S. Commissioner N. E. Lurton, can have much effect on the case, for as Major C. P. Holcomb urged yesterday the accused from the outset has been in the hands of the American authorities for an offense committed in America.

Lightner was arrested aboard the arriving steamer by U. S. Marshal Thurston Porter and he was arraigned before the U. S. Commissioner on the charge yesterday morning.

The arrest was made at the request of the Portland, Oregon, police department. Lightner was a coal passer on the steamer, which came here direct from Portland. Bail was fixed this morning at G. $5,000 and Lightner was sent to jail when he could not give security. He claims he is a British subject and the authorities are investigating.

Lightner, who is 25 years old, was a newsboy in Portland. According to information received by the American authorities here this spring, Lightner, with a man who was formerly a member of the Portland police department, descended on two Japanese on a vessel at Portland and, posing as officers of the law, attempted to confiscate a large quantity of opium the Japanese had in their possession.

ARRESTED THEMSELVES

The Japanese resisted and the report says that Lightner and the ex-police officer made a murderout assault upon them and took possession of the drug, only to be arrested later, themselves, by bona fide officers, who in turn seized the opium.

Lightner was released under G.$5,000 bail when he is alleged to have fled from Portland on the Norwegian steamer, the Luisa Nielsen, only to be arrested here as soon as the ship docked.

C. F. Gorman, manager of the Shipping Department of the China Import and Export Lumber Company, which operates the Luise Nielsen on the Lumberline, accompanied Marshal Porter aboard the steamer Sunday afternoon. Marshal Porter had previously secured the vise of the Norwegian Consulate-General on the warrant issued here and the Consul's approval of the arrest.

Lightner refused to talk about the case other than to declare, "It is all a frame up."

He questioned the Marshal's right to arrest him but made no resistance.

As bondsmen in Portland have G.$5,000 at stake, the opinion was expressed that they would be willing to pay transportation expenses back to Portland for Lightner.

MAN WHO SAVED STEFFANSON IS HERE ON TOUR

San Francisco Navigator Making Survey Of Shipping Conditions Here

Capt. L. L. Lane, navigator and deep sea fishermann of San Francisco, who achieved fame when he rescued Vilhjalmar Steffanson after the explorer and two companions, unheard of two years had been given up for lost, is paying a visit to Shanghai, having arrived on the Pacific Mail steamer President Wilson.

It is recalled that after Steffanson and his two companions had vanished into the Arctic and had been given up as lost word came that they had been found on Banks Land 72 degress north by a fishing vessel. Captain Lane was the master of the vessel that came upon the lost explorers.

Captain Lane is on a general survey of the shipping situation in Oriental countries. He is stopping at the Palace Hotel.

Although Captain Lane won considerable renown by his rescue of Steffanson and his outfitting the explorer so that he might continue his investigations in the Far North, he also effected a noteworthy rescue in 1915 when he brought back from virtual death seven Japanese sailors who had been wrecked on Nunivak Island in Bering Sea.

The sailors had been on the three-masted vessel Diafco Maru, bound from Yokohama to Vancouver, but had been forced ashore when their captain, the only navigator on board, had died. Several of the crew had died of exposure, but the seven remaining were taken to Alaska by Captain Lane on his craft.

Captain Lane has had a salvage claim pending since 1915 against the Japanese government, but so far has received no satisfaction, he said.

Ministry Wants State And Federal Taxes Defined

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 17.—The Ministry of the Interior has drafted a memorandum for submission to the Cabinet pointing out that the local self-government system has been in suspension since 1915 and that the local taxes imposed have therefore been monopolised by the military authorities. The Ministry urges that a clear line must be drawn from henceforth between national and local taxation and that the military authorities be prevented from interfering with the latter.

REV. L. W. PIERCE DROWNED WHEN LAUNCH CAPSIZES

Dies In Mistaken Belief That Wife Has Been Trapped

In the mistaken belief that his wife was still pinned beneath their capsized motor-boat, the Reverend L. W. Pierce, a missionary in Yangchow and the surrounding country for the past 31 years, went to his own death in the canal just outside Soochow at 10 o'clock Sunday morning.

Mrs. Pierce, who with their son, Herbert Pierce, a student at the Shanghai American School, and Mr. Stephen Green of Yangchow, was in the boat, saved herself by climbing on top of the overturned craft. All three were picked up by nearby sampans.

The Rev. Mr. Pierce and his family were returning from Shanghai at the time of the accident aboard the launch, a new boat just completed here for the Yangchow Union (Southern Baptist) Mission. The launch was approaching Soochow, and just before coming to a bridge at a fair rate of speed, her bows were crossed by a Chinese scow. Mr. Pierce sounded warning signals, but the scow kept on across, and in swerving sharply to avoid ramming the scow, the launch overturned.

All but Mrs. Pierce were quickly outside and climbing up the side as the boat settled over. Failing to see his wife, Mr. Pierce went back into the cabin in an effort to assist her out. In the meantime, Mrs. Pierce succeeded in getting out through a window with Mr. Green's assistance, but Mr. Pierce was caught inside as the boat sank deep into the water.

Within a few minutes, Mr. Green and others succeeded in getting Mr. Pierce out and on board a sampan, but all efforts to resuscitate him proved without avail. The body was taken to Soochow and later to Chinkiang on the night train. Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon in Chinkiang.

Mr. Pierce was the senior member of the Southern Baptist Mission at Yangchow and had charge of the pastoral worn in that field. He was highly respected and loved by both the Chinese people and his fellow workers, and his loss will be felt very deeply.

EIGHT ARRESTED FOR TAKING PART IN TUNG ATTACK

Minister Badly Mauled By Employes Of War Bureau

Details of the assault upon Tung Kang, Minister of Finance, on Saturday by members of the Ministry of War have reached Shanghai through private sources. According to the discoveries made by the Peking Procurate, Tung has black eyes, was rendered unconscious by blows on the head, and was bruised about the arms.

Eight hundred members of the Ministry of War, who have not been paid for the last eight months, organised the attack on the finance head. Nine representatives called on Tung on Saturday morning before the meeting of the Cabinet. Tung issued a memo in which he said he would order the Salt Gabelle to remit the sum of $140,000 for the payment of the arrears, which would be guaranteed by the Minister of War.

When Tung appeared at the hall of the Cabinet, about 90 war office men, who had been waiting for the reply, demanded that the order for the elimination of certain offices in the Ministry of War be rescinded. Tung was non-plussed.

In the excitement, one of the dissatisfied officials cried out "Hit him." Another caught Tung by the collar, a second hit him with clinched fist, a third kicked him, a fourth tapped him with a fan, while a fifth banged him over the head with an umbrella.

Eight were arrested. But the ring-leader, Tsao Yuan-chen, made good his escape. Dr. W. W. Yen, the premier, narrowly escaped, taking a ricsha home as his car was damaged in the onslaught.

The resignation of Tung Kang has been rejected by President Li, who maintains that the matter should be settled in accordance with law as Tung's resignation would show signs of weakness on the part of the present administration.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 16.—Following an assault yesterday on the Finance Minister, Mr. Tung Kang, by a crowd of discharged employes of the Ministry of Finance outside the Cabinet office, in which Mr. Tung's coat was torn off and he was roughly handled, the Minister and both Vice-Ministers of Finance have submitted their resignations to the President, while the employes of the Ministry at a meeting resolved to call a strike until a mandate had been issued providing protection for Government officials.

The President today declined to accept the resignations and is sending a personal representative to express to Mr. Tung his regret.

Seven of the rioters have been arrested and will be placed on trial tomorrow.

TIFFIN WITH LI

Navy Chief Plans To Leave Peking Friday

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 17.—The United States Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Edwin Denby, and party arrived at Chienmen Station at 9.30 yesterday evening and were welcomed by representatives of the Presidency, the Cabinet, the Ministries of Foreign Affairs and Navy and also by Mr. Schurman, the American Minister, and staff. The station was decorated and Chinese and American guards of honor and bands were in attendance. The party proceeded to the Peking Hotel where quarters were provided.

This morning Mr. Denby called on the President, the Ministers of Foreign Affairs and Navy and had tiffin with the President, spending the afternoon in an inspection of the Palace grounds and the Forbidden City. At a dinner tonight Mr. and Mrs. Denby will be guests of the Foreign Minister. The visit will last till Friday when the party will proceed to Shanghai.

(China Press Service)

Peking, July 16.—Secretary of the Navy, Edwin Denby, was overwhelmed with the most faultlessly elaborate reception ever tendered a foreign guest by the Chinese, the decorations, guards of honor meeting his special train surpassing anything seen at the Chienmen station in recent years, not even excepting the arrival of President Li Yuan-hung.

The Secretary and his party were met at the side of his ship at Chinwangtao by Rear Admiral Chen En-tao, Councilors Wang Ling-ko and Li Fang of the Foreign Office, Chief of Navigation Li Pingyin of the Ministry of Communications, Hollington K. Tong, representing Chihli province, and Commander C. T. Hutchins, American Naval Attache.

MET AT SHIP

Secretary Denby inspected the Fifteenth Infantry guard of honor drawn up at Tangshan and Lwanchow stations, Chinese guards at Chinwangtao and Tientsin where the police and governor's guards and the American consul with a delegation of American merchants were out. At Langfang station, he inspected Wu Pei-fu's garrison in which he took an especial interest and at Peking, the Chinese police and gendarmes and the entire American Legation Guard.

The great popular interest was an unusual feature, the streets on the way to the Peking Hotel being lined with Chinese civilians upon whom Denby's bearing and kindly manner make an excellent impression.

The Secretary authorised The China Press to convey his greetings to the people of Shanghai among whom he expects to spend three days and where, he says, he expects to get his last and most convincing glimpse of the new China which has grown up since his departure 28 years ago.

NANKING FARM SCHOOL TO WIDEN SCOPE OF WORK

(China Press Correspondence)

Nanking, July 15.—The scope of work of the College of Agriculture in the University of Nanking will be considerably widened when the special one year course, taught in Mandarin, opens next September. Hitherto students of Agriculture have been confined to the five year courses in Agriculture and Forestry which are taught largely in English or to summer courses. The new course runs through one school year and one summer totaling eleven months. It will combine an intensive study of the most useful subjects with an abundance of practice by having all classroom work arranged on nursery operations.

Practically the whole regular faculty of the College of Agriculture and Forestry will participate in giving the courses mentioned or in supervising field work. More than 800 mow of farm gardens and nurseries are available for every line of farm practice. The object of this special course will be primarily to so train rural teachers, pastors and extension workers that they will be able to meet the particular problems in their own localities and become active community leaders. Secondarily it is intended to develop farm foremen, experiment station managers, operators of pure seed farms, etc.

In order that students from farming communities of but limited means may enter, the expenses have been reduced to the lowest possible figure being only about $128 for the eleven months for board, tuition, books and incidentals. For the first year the entering class is limited to 25, though it is hoped that the usefulness of such a work will justify the preparation of accommodations for a much larger number in subsequent years.

Kailan Firm May Get Mine Rights In The Philippines

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, July 8.—Projects to lease the properties of the National Coal Company, a government-controlled organisation in the Philippines, to the Kailan Mining Company of North China were favorably commented on recently by Mr. Jose Paez, director of the Bureau of Public Works, as follows:

"While I am of the opinion that the question of leasing the coal properties to a private corporation should be put up to the legislature, I believe it would be [illegible] age of the government to consider seriously whatever terms may be offered.

"If the officers of the Kailan Company will come to a concrete lease proposal which is fair and reasonable I will make favorable recommendation that it be accepted.

The National Coal company was [illegible] industrial projects started by the Government in the last Administration. It has not been profitable and its operations have been virtually at a standstill for some time. Although it is believed that private capital could develop it, investors have to reckon with the disinclination of many leading Filipinos to encourage the investment of foreign capital in the Islands. The Filipino Government, while nominally favoring the development of the Island resources, is reluctant to admit much capital, fearing that it will be one more obstacle in the way of achieving independence.

VERDUN GARDEN LANTERN FAIR IS REAL NOVELTY

Place Like Circus With Things "Going On All The Time All Over The Lot"

In the list of hot weather diversions now current the Lantern Fair at Verdun Gardens, which has something of the aspect of an American county fair combined with a Fourth of July fete, will be found to be an altogether refreshing novelty. To the amusement seeker, wearied of the familiar round of 'places to go,' the Lantern Fair offers something really out of the ordinary.

The fair occupies an area of about five acres which at night is a blaze of colored incandescents and, like a circus, has things "going on all over the lot all the time." Aside from numerous advertising booths, erected and decorated with no small degree of artistry, the attractions to tempt the visitor are many and varied.

At one end of the enclosure is a large stage on which through the evening the foremost Chinese theatrical talent of Shanghai is appearing. On another stage a variety program is given which includes some uncommonly clever Chinese juggling and conjuring. A large space at one end is occupied by a cafe where Chinese and foreign foods and drinks are supplied. This is conducted by the Yih Ping Shang hotel and in connection with it is a dancing floor with an orchestra that provides a class of jazz that is enlivening.

Besides the other attractions moving pictures are shown every evening, one of which is of particular interest, having been produced in Shanghai and is designed to amuse both the foreign and the Chinese spectator.

A particularly novel note is struck in the character of the fireworks exhibit, for while this includes much that is familiar in the matter of rockets and the like, the fireworks program includes also some marvellous large pieces, one an immense flaming pagoda that is evolved out of a large ball of fire in the air.

The fair, it is said, is to continue for two weeks.

"Fake" Policemen Held Under Remand

Four Chinese, accused of impersonating police officers and stealing $200 in "searching" an office at No. 767 Peking Road, were arraigned before Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Loh in the Mixed Court yesterday. The complainant was a Chinese, who charged that they entered his place, and after representing themselves as police officers, started to search it. When they left, the $200 was missing. All four were remanded in custody and will be tried on a charge of illegal functioning on July 27.

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realising this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense, and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered pheminol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefully and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove, and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair, and should then be carefully washed in warm water, and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talcum powder. (Advt.)

THRIFT TESTIMONIALS OF NOTABLE MEN

THE AMERICAN-ORIENTAL BANKING CORPORATION

Rudyard Kipling—

"Savings represent much more than their mere money value. They are proof that the saver is worth something in himself. Any fool can waste, any fool can muddle; but it takes something of a man to save, and the more he saves the more of a man does it make of him. Waste and extravagance unsettle a man's mind for every crisis; thrift, which means some form of self-restraint and continence, steadies it."

Chang Chien, Jr., Accepts Commission To Investigate Industry In U. S. & Europe

Mr. Chang Chien, Jr., son of the Nantung Cotton Industrial Magnate, accepted yesterday by telegraph the appointment by the Peking Administration as Special Commissioner for the Investigation of Industrial Conditions in Europe and America.

Mr. Chang will leave for Japan next month as guest of the Japanese Industrial Exposition and from thence proceed to the Dutch Indies to visit with his overseas friends. He will return towards the end of the year and then sail for the United States and Europe to carry out his special mission.

Mr. Chang Chien, Jr., born in Nantungchow, is the eldest son of His Excellency Chang Chien the magnate in Chinese industry. During his boyhood, he exhibited unusual intelligence and character. When he was five years of age, his father engaged a Japanese governess to give him kindergarten training. He graduated from primary school at the age of thirteen; then he was put under the private tutorship of Mr. Shen Tung-fong, a noted Chinese scholar from Changchow, to study Chinese history and literature. For two years he was in a German-Chinese High School at Tsingtao. After having spent some time there, he was called back by his father to study English under a private British tutor.

At the age of seventeen he made a trip to the Philippines and Dutch Indies. His desire for a university education led him over to study in New York University where he took a course in commerce. Upon returning from the States, he proved himself to be an able assistant to his father in all his enterprises, industrial, educational and philanthropic. A few things that owe their existence to him are the Hwei Hai Industrial Bank; the Da Yu Land Reclamation Company; the Nantung Embroidery and Lace School, which has a branch on Fifth Avenue, New York City; The Nantung Joint Stock and Produce Exchange and the Nantung Engineering and Construction Company. Seeing what he has accomplished his father places in him full confidence and consults him on all problems. It is not an exaggeration to say that he deserves full half of the credit that his father gets in his recent undertakings.

Among his accomplished projects perhaps, the establishment of the Nantung District Assembly stands foremost in the eyes of the whole nation.

Nantung, the model city, owes its name and success to His Excellency Chang Chien and his brother Hon. Chang Cha. The other citizens of the district as a whole have contributed very little to its attainment. The Commissioner's ambition is to strengthen all the work so far done in the city and make it permanent by inducing each and every citizen to co-operate and take an active part in all that is to be done. In order to accomplish his purpose he has worked and organised the District Assembly of Nantung the members of which are elected by the Bureaus of Education Agriculture and Commerce from the able men in whose hands the theory of local self-government will be brought into pratice. This is the first formal district assembly revived after the abolition of local self-government by Yuan Shih-kai on his attempt to restore the monarchy.

Two of the most important measures carried out by the assembly are the demolition of the Nantung city wall and the issue of the Nantung district loan. The relic of ages being the pride of the superstitious and conservative and obstructive to new civilisation is now done with by the firm determination of the young leader. It is the first inland city to exist without walls. The city wall bricks are now utilised for the building of a local power plant and the site formerly occupied by the wall is now turned into a broad thoroughfare.

The idea of raising a district loan was to concentrate the wealth of the district for the purpose of projecting industries on a large scale. A part of the net earnings can be set aside as a fund to run the self-government. Out of the two millions dollar loan, one half of the sum has been secured and the other half will shortly be forthcoming. At present the Chinese national loan is badly discredited. The success of the Nantung District loan is without doubt due to the confidence that the citizens of the district have in the integrity of Mr. Chang Chien, Jr. The Nantung District loan is the first of the kind in the country.

The commissioner firmly believes that the citizens should take an active part in the management of local enterprises and that the policy of the enterprises should necessarily be determined by the majority of the people of the city. He was elected in the summer of 1921 as a representative of Nantung to be a member in parliament. But because of the chaotic conditions then existing in Peking and of the local problems that he had to attend to, he resigned. Since the establishment of the Chinese Republic there have been only two men who have resigned to enter the national parliament, namely His Excellency Chang Chien and his son. Mr. Chang Chien was once elected as a member of the senate and once as a representative of the National Parliament during the first year of the Republic.

In order to organise the leaders of Kiangsu and enable them to do team work, the commissioner organised a provincial party, known as the Kiangsu Association, the purpose of which is to work out the ideals of self-government. The members of the association consist of representatives of the various districts in the province, and they have done much to voice the sentiment of the people. He is one of the directors of the association.

Commissioner Chang is a very attractive man and known to be straight, honest and progressive. In business he is quite efficient. While his father is enjoying his old age on Langshan, he has to look after scores of letters and telegrams which are to be disposed of in the most efficient and diplomatic way. He is a strong advocate for the majority rule in all government politics. He firmly believes in the organization of political parties like those of Europe and America to carry out measures for the good interests of the nation. He wants to see all positions filled by men of special training.

The Hwei Hai Industrial Bank he organised has now over a dozen branch offices scattered among the principal cities of the province. His aim is to have branch offices in districts all over the province, so that business can be conducted with a high degree of facility. Savings accounts have been encouraged. Interest charges to farmers and small dealers are at the lowest rate. The Bank is conducted after the newest system of Europe and America without, however, neglecting the good points of the Chinese native banks. The employees in the bank are graduates from European and American universities, or men with practical experience and integrity.

The Nantung Joint Stock Exchange, one of his many enterprises, is considered one of the best organised and capitalised exchanges in China. It has been opened already for transactions, and consists of four departments: cotton, yarn, stocks and sundries.

The positions that Hon. Chang Chien, Jr., is now holding are as follows: President of the Administrative Board of Nantung Industrial Enterprises, President of the Nantung District Educational Association, President of the Hwei Hai Industrial Bank, President of the Da Yu Land Reclamation Company, Member of the Executive Committee of the Tung Chung Hai Tai General Chamber of Commerce and advisor to the Military and Civil Governors of Kiangsu, Vice-President of the Free Educational Promotion Association of Kiangsu, and director of the Pacific Conference Discussion Association of Peking.

In complying with the decision concluded by the Cabinet, the President appointed him on July 13, 1922, as a Special Commissioner to the Western Countries to Investigate Industry and Commerce. He is the youngest among the high officials of China.

Wood Wants Rules To Cover Wireless

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, July 8.—The rapid spread of wireless telephony in the United States has prompted Governor General Wood to urge upon the Philippine Department of Commerce the necessity of drawing up rules and regulations in anticipation of its probable introduction here.

A few sets are already in operation in and near Manila but as yet no broadcasting station has been established. Governor Wood, in his communication to the Secretary of the Department, says:

"You have noticed without doubt the recent craze for wireless telephones, which has spread over America and Canada like a fever, and that due to the fact that there has been no warning of the extent of this development both countries have been without laws and regulations to meet the occasion.

"Wireless telephones, so far as one can see ahead, will in no sense be a substitute for wireless telegraphy, but it will not be long before this development will spread to the Philippines and I should like your consideration of what foresighted measures should be taken to provide the laws and regulations to supervise and handle it to the best interests of the government and people."

No child who desires to attend the Yokohama Foreign School will be denied entrance because of nationality or mixed parentage. This far-reaching action by which the Board of Directors of the Yokohama Foreign School will be governed in the future was announced recently at a general meeting of the board, the debenture holders and the general public which took place in Van Eeghen Hall. The announced future policy will, it is believed, definitely settle the controversy which for years has been a source of friction in the foreign community of Yokohama. The action of the board to admit Eurasian children met general approval of those present, and the way is believed cleared for a steady and prosperous growth of the Yokohama Foreign School.

The Sailors Came Near Winning Game Sunday, Bad Peg Spoils Chance

Baseball Tomorrow!

The Shanghai team will play the All Fleet aggregation again tomorrow, and just on the chance that the game may be as interesting as the one Sunday you'd better make arrangements to be there. The contest will not start until five o'clock, and Manager Gallop requests that all the Shanghai players, regulars and rookies, turn out.

BY WESTA

When the well known worm and the equally well known under dog get tad up with the idea of being tromped on and kicked all over the landscape, as they sometimes do, it's high time to reef the sails and batten down the hatches in preparation for a typhoon.

The lowly worm and the long suffering under dog have been known, on occasion, to rise up in their wrath and knock their tormentors' blocks clean and completely off. Push him a bit too far and the lowly worm is apt to transform himself, by some magic known only to the caterpillar tribe, into a howling rattlesnake with a double row of tusks and poison ivy juice quirting from every rattle and all his buttons. Likewise the under dog. Heave one too many skillets at him or pinch his tail in the door once too often and as likely as not he'll turn on you and kick a hole plumb through the middle of your gazookis.

Baseball teams are the same way. Last week a bunch of meek and humble sailors drifted into this port on a gunboat and a couple of mine-layers, the combined fleet being so small that even the sampans took their own sweet time about getting out of the way as it came up the river.

"PRETTY SOFT"

"This will be pretty soft for us," said the members of Hoppy's gang, licking their chops in expectation of fattened batting averages.

And so it was—at first. In the first two or three games the locals ran themselves ragged around the bases, and boosted their averages until the belts of the same had to be let out to the last notch, and then helped out with a strip. It was little short of rude and disgraceful the way Hoppy's hands crowded up to the home plate in these games to nick off hits for themselves, many of the customers remarking that the scene reminded them of hog feeding time in the old days back on the farm, when all the porkers tried to get their feet and their snoots onto the trough at the same time.

Sunday, however, the sailors turned, after the manner of the previously mentioned worm, and although they did not quite win the game they threw a scare into Hoppy and his gang that caused Manager Holby Gallop, worrying on the bench and sliding back and forth as he worried, to scuff out his best Sunday pants. The score was 8 to 7, but it nearly wasn't.

ME BOOTS ONE

With Shanghai up for the last turn at bat, and one run behind, Mason, the sailor second sacker, stopped an easy one from Hoppy's bat that should have been the third out, but in his hurry, which was unnecessary, he pegged the ball a mile over the first baseman's head, letting Holliday, who had deadheaded, and Thatch, who had hit to center, trot in with the runs that tied and won the game.

The sailors went into the lead in their half of the ninth, in which chukker Nichols, who started the rampage, was safe on a drive that was too hot for The Thatch to get to first in time although he knocked it down in fine style. Knearl followed with a blow over second, and went to third when a throw to stop Nichols got through Griffiths and rolled to the grandstand, Nichols scoring. Mal tossed out Lane. Crisostamas then drove one to Holliday, in center field, who let it leak through his fingers, Knearl scoring. Miller then hit to right, scoring the pitcher. Mason popped to Smith and Packer whiffed.

That was three runs, including the big one necessary to put the sailors in the lead, and with but half an inning to go it looked like Hoppy and Co. were in for a licking.

JENKINS BUSTS ONE

Jenkins, first up in the Shanghai ninth, busted one over second, and stole. Holliday walked and Thatch hit to center. Scotty popped to the pitcher and Maloney fed to Stephenson, who threw to the plate to head off Jenkins. The throw pulled Lane off the plate, forcing him to touch Jenkins on the line, and this loss of time enabled Mal to hobble to first. Hoppy then hit to Mason, who chucked over Miller's head, as described, thus spilling the beans for the sailors.

Shanghai began scoring in the second (according to data compiled by Doc Irons, assistant war correspondent). Thatch starting the fireworks with a blow over second. Scotty hit him home, and scored himself when Mal drove one into the cricket field, his lame ankle holding him to two bases on what ordinarily would have been an easy homer. He scored on a hit by Hirsh, the box score hound.

The sailors cashed their first run in the fourth, Stepenson hitting over second with one man down. Bunting hit over first, Stevie going to third. Nichols out to Hoppy, Doc scoring. Knearl hit over second, scoring Bunting.

Shanghai scored in the fifth on another two bagger by Maloney, followed by a hit by Hoppy.

All fleet scored two in the seventh. Nichols safe on Thatch's bobble. Knearl out at first, Nichols going to third. The pitcher hit through first, scoring Nichols, and counted himself when Miller cracked one into center field. In the Shanghai seventh Scotty hit for three bases, and scored when the throw to catch him at third went into the crowd.

Hoppy opened the Shanghai eighth with a three base blow to right, and scored on Smith's long sacrifice fly to Nichols.

That accounts for all the runs. Here are the statistics:

Baseball Notes

Artie Barrett, assistant war correspondent, was in center field for Shanghai until Holliday arrived. In the time he was out there he didn't muff a fly or make an error.

Miller, the sailor first sacker, got four hits in five times up.

Nichols made another circus catch. It's a poor day when that bird doesn't tear back and pull one down that is labeled for three or four bases. The one he grabbed Sunday was a mile to his right, but he chased over and snagged it. That boy is about the surest outfielder that has appeared here this summer.

All the sailors and many of the customers squawked when Jimmy Logan called Mason out at the plate in the seventh, on a throw to Griffiths from Hoppy. To many it appeared that the sailor second sacker slid under the throw.

Mal's bad ankle deprived him of one, and possibly two homers. The first one rolled clear into the cricket field, but the crippled Mal could only hobble to second on it.

A fine breeze made playing far less strenuous than on the previous day.

Mistakes That Mothers Make.

Many mothers give their children solid food at too early an age and say proudly that their babies "eat everything that grown up people do," when such a course is almost certain to bring on indigestion and to lay the foundation of much ill-health.

Others administer harsh nauseating purgatives, and thus make the little ones fear medicine, at the same time irritating and injuring their delicate stomachs and bowels.

Absolutely no meat should be given a child until it has reached the age of 18 months, and then only if approved of by the doctor. For medicine, all strong disagreeable draughts and oils should be abandoned and Baby's Own Tablets substituted instead.

Baby's Own Tablets are especially made for children's use and can be given with absolute safety to even the youngest infant. They reduce fever, cure colic and indigestion, dispel constipation, check diarrhoea, relieve croup and colds, allay teething troubles, and promptly bring health-giving restful sleep in a natural way.

Chemists sell Baby's Own Tablets, or sent post free, 60 cents per vial, by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Junior Bowlers In High Fettle After Beating Yangtszepoo

Victory Comes In Convincing Fashion By 53 Points

The Juniors made no mistake in their match with the Yangtszepoo on Sunday last, winning in convincing fashion by 53 points and all rinks top-side. The green was as keen as a razor and this coupled with a fresh Southerly breeze seemed to non-plus the visitors.

The victory, the first of the season, has put the Juniors in high feather, especially as it came on the top of a fine win by J. Burnside and Co. in the rink championship. By the way the inclusion of J. Burnside in the rink in the place of E. Smith owing to sickness, makes the Juniors hope pretty strong, and I should not be at all surprised to see the rink championship go to Hongkew Park this year.

Of course the club hold a strong hand with Geordie Dunlop's four and their win over Veitch's team was something in the nature of a rout. Again a glance at the Yangtszepoo rink brings to mind the big four who for three years in succession were unbeatable. The only change in the rink is the inclusion of A. A. Malcolm vice the redoubtable Bob Aitkenhead, who is at present trying his hand against trundlers in Scotland. Sandy is such a brainy bowler that in this case the exchange is no robbery to Big Geordie's four.

The champions have all their hopes centered in T. Polland's rink, and again, here we have four sterling players and their game with the Yangtszepoo four is being looked forward to with more than the usual amount of interest.

I notice the Australian team at present in Great Britain are not doing so well. In the first test match against the English bowling association, they were defeated by 17 points, only one Australian rink coming out on top. They won against the Eastern Countries but were defeated by Gloucester. They have not been arjant the Tweed

MONEY MUDDLE HOPELESS, PEKING CABINET QUITS

Unable To Hold Out Even Until Parliament Meets

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, July 15.—The Yen Cabinet resigned en bloc this morning after a long and hard session, according to the reports of those close to that body. This news is startling, but at the same time was not wholly unexpected inasmuch as its life under President Li Yuan-hung has not been too easy and peaceful. The reasons were not fully disclosed, but they are believed to be the helplessness of the Cabinet to meet the financial obligations as well as the political attacks.

The financial problems are nearly impossible of solution under the present system of temporary cabinets. Tung Kang, Minister of Finance, has said that with his uncertain duration of office he could not get very far in working out a permanent system for financial relief. What one man does is all lost when a political upheaval drops a new minister in his place. No revenue is coming in from the Provinces and the little that has been obtainable in Peking has been commandeered for military purposes.

The political side has been getting worse as more members of the Old Parliament arrived in the capital. They have been working around to place their favorites, with big eyes on the Cabinet posts and the presidency itself. The Chinese press has had its share in making attacks on the work of this Cabinet, things going to such an extent, that Minister of Communications, Kao En-hung is now charging a newspaper with libel, one of the first on record in China.

It has been known for some time that President Li was becoming discouraged over the failure of the military party to support him in action on his platform for the abolition of tuchuns and the disbandment of superfluous troops. They all accorded his scheme with welcome but then proceeded to think up an alibi to postpone any action on the subject.

It has been at his urgent request that the Cabinet has held on thus far, it being his hopes to keep it together until Parliament met on August 1 and a constitutional Cabinet was appointed.

Judging by this morning's resignation, things had gone too far to hold off even two more weeks. This Cabinet has been functioning just about a month.

Filipino Goes Loco At Manila

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, July 17.—A Filipino ran amuck this morning in the heart of the American residential, club and hotel district near Luneta, cutting and slashing eight persons including one woman who had both her hands cut off. He was pursued by a large crowd to the beach where he jumped into the Bay. The man was eventually lassooed by an army captain and native policeman who followed in a rowboat. All the wounded were Filipinos or Chinese.

NATIONALS IN IRELAND TAKE STRONGHOLD

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 16.—Strengthened by guns and armored-cars landed at Buncrana by an Irish gunboat, the National troops yesterday evening attacked the stronghold on Inch Island, occupied by 200 irregulars.

After a four hours' bombardment by an 18-pounder, the National troops advanced and penetrated some distance into the island.

They surrounded the stronghold, capturing during their advance Lord Templemore's house, which the irregulars had occupied for some weeks. A number of prisoners were taken. Early surrender of the stronghold is anticipated.

Explosions and volumes of smoke this morning indicated that the defenders were destroying their ammunition.

Free State troops have captured the barracks at Dundalk, taking prisoners the garrison of 250, who were in bed. Not a single shot was fired but one irregular was killed and one wounded during fighting in the town prior to the assault on the barracks.

In view of the anxiety caused by the deliberate destruction of property by the irregulars, an effort is being made by the Irish Labor Party and Trade Union Congress to secure peace by conference.

The Executive of the Labor members of the new Parliament decided during the week-end to invite all their colleagues in the Parliament to meet at the Mansion House in Dublin on July 20 to consider proposals of peace.

SHOPS LOOTED

According to reports received in Dublin the irregulars have seized and looted many ships in Cork Harbor. Besides depredations on shipping and business premises at Limerick, they have seized the famous bacon factories and flour-mills, throwing the employees out of work.

This feature of the irregulars' activities is emphasised in a manifesto of the Irish Government, addressed to Mr. Collins and the new War Council, reaffirming the determination of the Government to suppress the revolt which aims at destruction to the economic life of the nation by burning and wrecking property and by robbing and conscripting the population.

The rebel fortress on Inch Island, Lomeh Swilly, has surrendered. Twenty-one prisoners were taken, the remainder of the garrison of two hundred escaping. All the rebel strongholds in East and North Donegal have now been cleared.

A communique, issued in Dublin, states that the National troops have captured the whole of Dundalk. Three hundred irregulars were captured.

Little resistance was offered. There were no casualties amongst the National troops but one irregular was killed and one wounded whilst trying to escape.

The American Athletic Union has declined to take part in the forthcoming Tailteann Games owing to the disturbed conditions in Ireland.

EFFECT FELT

London, July 15.—Paralysis is slowly creeping over the economic life of Ireland and is becoming an increasingly grave aspect of present conditions. Civilians in some places, especially in Limerick, are in peril of starvation.

Ambulance trains are arriving in Dublin with Nationalist casualties, principally from the South, which is the scene of the Government's most formidable task.

Irregulars are concentrated in large numbers in the Counties of Limerick, Cork, Kerry and Waterford and part of Tipperary.

Apart from rounding up marauders, the revolt in Donegal, Mayo and Sligo is now suppressed.

A very striking Free State success terminated ten days' fighting at Colleoney, County Sligo, which General McKeown's troops captured with seventy prisoners after a four hours' battle.

Irregulars at Thurles vainly attempted an encircling movement in which they lost 74 prisoners.

The irregulars control the approaches to Cork City and have established a blockade. The citizens are suffering privations in consequence of the blockade and the exactions of the irregulars.

London, July 15.—A communique, issued at Dublin today, states that the irregulars are holding the barracks at Waterford and have mined the roads to the city. Fighting has been in progress at Limerick since Tuesday but the position of the National Army there is very satisfactory.

The guard fired on prisoners in Mount Joy prison at Dublin today, who did not heed the warning to desist from signalling to persons outside. Two of the prisoners were wounded.

The correspondent of Freeman's Journal at Limerick says that 2,000 inhabitants of Limerick are on the verge of starvation in consequence of the siege and hundreds are fleeing from the city.

Bull Movement At End, Cotton Operators Think

(Reuter's Service)

New York, July 23.—At 22.95 for July contracts, reached on Tuesday, and representing the highest level of the present advance, the bull movement in cotton seemed to culminate temporarily at least, and a liquidating movement developed in preparation for the first July notice day and the coming Government report. Weather conditions also showed a tendency to improve and private crop advices the last few days have been very much better than at any time in the last few weeks.

While there are a good many 25 cent bulls left, the whole tendency of the trade this week has been to reduce commitments on the long side and take another look at the situation. The rise to present levels has been almost perpendicular and it would be quite natural, with any encouragement in the way of crop improvement, to see a good reaction, even though underlying conditions in the market might be as bullish as ever.

Few, however, anticipate more than a reaction sufficient to shake out the weakest longs. With large sales in the goods markets, the strike situation in New England apparently in a fair way to early settlement, and the possibility of heavy boll weevil damage during July and August, there is little incentive to operate for lower prices.

A New Orleans house which has previously endeavored to be conservative by estimating the world's requirements of American next season at 13,000,000 bales, now thinks that, as American and British trade is expanding, the requirements may reach 14,000,000 bales. They believe it easily possible that England may require a million bales more of American cotton than they will take this season. That domestic mills are consuming such large quantities of cotton each week notwithstanding the strikes in New England is one of the surprising and puzzling features of the situation that seems to denote that practically 23 cent cotton on the Exchanges has not perceptibly slowed up consumptive demand for goods.

OPINIONS DIFFER

Many think that they will be absorbed just as readily at 25 cents for cotton but above that figure there is some difference of opinion and a further rise might meet serious opposition from the goods markets. Unquestionably this week has brought the speculative trade face to face with the question of what the market is likely to do with a week or so of fine growing weather in the belt.

Most traders seem to think the boll weevil would then step in where the bad weather left off and the market would become flooded with damage reports from this source. If reliance is to be placed on private advices, and even government reports, the boll weevil menace season will be one of the worst ever encountered and, unless the weather remains unfavorable to the insect, extensive damage may ensue or at least be threatened, which will be sufficient to keep the market in a highly nervous state all summer.

The weevil thrives best in wet weather but is so numerous that it will probably be a market factor in any kind of weather. From a prominent cotton section in South Carolina a message was received this week saying that, while the crop had made fair progress in the past two weeks, it was badly infested with weevil and looked like it might be almost eaten up by the pest as farmers have become discouraged in their efforts to fight the plague. A cotton authority who has been investigating conditions in the belt for some time past estmates an increase in acreage of 17 percent in Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana and about 6 percent for all States east of the Mississippi River. The increase in fertiliser has been 12.7 percent.

As an instance of how rapidly cotton is disappearing in the South, the Staple Cotton Cooperative Association with its headquarters at Greenwood, Miss., is carrying stocks at all its compresses and marketing points of only 8,000 bales. It has received this season 185,000 bales. It estimates that every bale will have been sold before August 1.

Cotton is also disappearing from the New York stock and one large holder here has engaged room for 15,000 bales to Liverpool and another 15,000 bales to Barcelona and Naples.

Business and Official Notices

MUNICIPAL NOTIFICATION
No. 3021.

(Translation)
RICE PROFITEERING.

From investigations made by the Council into the causes contributing to the present abnormally high price of rice, it appears that, in their greed for personal gain and unmindful of the hardships and suffering caused to poor people, certain persons have accumulated stocks of rice, which they are withholding from the market, creating a temporary shortage of supplies, and forcing up the price to an unwarranted figure.

Rice is the staple food of the Chinese people, and profiteering or speculating in the food of the people is an offence against the law, and severely punishable.

Notice is accordingly given that any persons profiteering in rice, whether by the withholding of stocks or by any other means, are liable to prosecution with severe penalties on conviction, and with confiscation of their stocks.

The public is earnestly requested to report any cases of rice profiteering that may come to its knowledge. Such reports should be in writing, addressed to the Commissioner of Police, Central Police Station, Foochow Road, and should give as full particulars as possible, so as to facilitate prosecution against the concerned.

By Order,
N. O. LIDDELL,
Secretary and Commissioner General.

DECLARATION

In the 6th moon of 6th year of the Chinese Republic, Messrs. Wong Chao Ling (王召靈), Sung Kung Szu (宋康如), Chen Bao Yun (陳步雲) and Peh Yung Sung (卜永生) by mutual unanimity, established the Zung Cheong Ziang Piece Goods Dyes and Sundries Store (源昌祥洋廣顏料雜細雜貨號) at Rue Laguerre, French Concession, Shanghai, and I was appointed as manager. At the conclusion of the European War in the following year, there was a surplus of goods imported from America and the exchange rates in sterling and gold dollars were unfavorable, thus causing the selling prices to drop to a very low level.

For some years, I endeavored to fulfil my duties and fortunately, have upheld the business in order. Up to the 15th day of 2nd Fifth Moon this year I handed over to my shareholders, all orders contracted for with the Foreign and Chinese firms, also debit and credit accounts and I have severed connections with the aforesaid store.

Lest the public should not take note of the reason I hereby declare same in the Shun Pao, Sin Wan Pao and this paper.

Peh Yue An (卜幼安)

Dissolution of Partnership

In the 6th year of the Chinese Republic, Messrs. Wong, Peh, Sung and Chen were shared in establishing the Zung Cheong Ziang Piece Goods, Dyes and Sundries Store, at Rue Laguerre, French Concession, Shanghai. At present, owing to the different opinion of the shareholders and the resignation of Mr. Peh Yue An, the Manager, the business with stocks, furniture, fixtures and fittings, also debit accounts have been taken over by the Zung Cheong Ziang Kiu Kee (潤昌祥久記) terms as justly estimated from the 15th day of the 2nd fifth moon this year together with shares in the names of Messrs. Sung and Peh. After amalgamated, the business will be carried on as usual by the new management, (Kiu Kee) All orders contracted for, also debit and credit accounts made with various parties by the Zung Cheong Ziang will be undertaken by the Zung Cheong Ziang Kiu Kee. Hereafter any profit or loss in the business will not be concerned with Messrs. Sung and Peh.

We advertise this in the Shun Pao, Sin Wan Pao and this paper.

Good Crops, But Troops Keep Farm Dwellers In Poverty

(China Press Correspondence)

Haichow, July 15.—Crops have been good in this part of Kiangsu thus far this year. There would be prosperity everywhere if there were no soldiers and no bandits. Most bandits were once soldiers so we might well say "no soldiers" and leave out "no bandits."

Thanks to our friends, the military officials, imported opium is plentiful and cheap. The military organisation is the medium of distribution and that distribution is thorough all through Kiangpei.

And so it goes. Soldiers and bandits and bandits and soldiers. What's the difference? A band of soldiers came into a nearby town the other day and demanded a certain amount of food and lodgement. Since it was not immediately forthcoming fire was set to the large market town. The wind was blowing strongly and the fire had good headway. No attempt to put it out was allowed. A merchant cried out, "I will give 500 strings of cash to any one who will help to put out the fire." But the soldiers seized the 500 strings and allowed the fire to burn on.

Oil Concerns Seek Parley With Russ

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 16.—The Temps says that, through the intermediary of the President of the Hague Conference, the Royal Dutch and Shell Companies have invited representatives of Russian petroleum interests to a conference with a view to considering resumption of work in the Caucasian oil-fields. Besides Colonel Boyle, who is continuing the conversations interrupted at Genoa, the Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Shell Company is reported to be at the Hague.

Spot and forward bar silver were unchanged in London as well as in New York on Saturday.

The London-New York cross rate advanced to 444½ and the London-Paris cross rate improved to 5365.

The only changes of importance in our rates today were a drop in the Franc rate to 930 and in the Yen rate to 62½.

At the opening the market was inclined to be on the easy side, business in Sterling being done as low as 3-5⅞ and in Gold Dollars at 77⅝.

Banks, however, generally were good sellers at these rates, consequently only a small amount of business was done at this level. However quite a large business in Sterling was done at 3-5 15-16 and in Gold Dollars at 77⅞.

Later in the morning the market steadied up considerably, speculators who heretofore had been inclined to buy becoming sellers and at the tiffin interval there were sellers of Sterling at 3-6⅛ and of Gold Dollars at 78.

In the afternoon rates eased off slightly while a small business was done in Sterling at 3s. 6⅛d. and 78 in Gold Dollars, there were generally buyers at these quotations. At the close there were possible sellers at 3s. 6⅛d. and 77⅞.

War, Food, Plague In South China

(China Press Correspondence)

Kaying, July 6.—This region has been visited this spring by the three great scourges of China: war, flood and plague. It is very fortunate that in the south famine is practically unknown, or it might be possible to add a fourth to the above list.

The bubonic plague which always comes in the spring has been exceptionally severe this year. During the month of May all of the Kaying schools had to be closed because of this dreadful disease. They resumed classes about June 1, but some of them were forced to close again about the middle of June because of fresh outbreaks.

This spring has brought unusually heavy rains here in North Kwangtung with the result that the rivers have filled to the flood stage and some damage has resulted to crops and towns that happened to be near enough to the river banks to be caught in the rising waters. The river towns have several storeys that have been built with the knowledge that floods would come. As a consequence, when the water reaches the first floor the family packs up and moves higher up. In some cases the water chases families up several storeys and out onto the roof before it subsides. From all reports the loss of life from high water has been but little.

Blame For The German Loan Fiasco

"A DIABOLICAL Situation" confronted J. P. Morgan and the other bankers who met in Paris; and they finally came to the not unnatural conclusion that loaning money to a bankrupt with unknown and unlimited liabilities, to be immediately transferred to creditors who refuse to state the exact amount of their claims, was not good business." Thus a Western editor dismisses the failure of the German loan project, while the Boston Post uses the familiar language of the marketplace to point out that failure was inevitable, since "investors throughout the world are not going to take a second mortgage on Germany if the first mortgage held by the former Allied countries (the reparations) is so large that there would be nothing left for the second mortgage holders." Since we have most of the world's spare change, the proposed loan would have been largely an American investment, and the Cleveland News is by no means alone in thinking that "the calling off of the attempt to stake the Germans to a billion or three would suit American notions very well. Our national experience with international loans has not been of the happiest." But while we may be better off—and no one suggests that we are any the worse off—our editors cannot refrain from telling what they think of those whom they blame for creating the situation that was too "diabolical" to straighten out. They recall the bankers' statement attributing their failure to lack of Allied unity, Germany's unreliability, and France's unwillingness to consider reduction of German payments or a complete reopening of the whole reparations question.

France is chided, more in sorrow than in anger, by some of our dailies. Had the French consented to conditions making the loan possible, American money would have flowed, not primarily into Germany, but into France. In short, the New York Globe goes on, "Mr. Poincare has clung to a great principle, but he has sacrificed ready cash." It seems to the New York Journal of Commerce that it is of no use to consider financial rehabitation until France changes her point of view. As this paper envisages the situation:

"Germany has been granted a moratorium in order to enable her to pay France some part of the latter's claims. To do so she must have a foreign loan. That cannot be had, according to the bankers, unless good security is offered. Such security can be given only if France will moderate her total indemnity claim and put the new loan ahead of the old or outstanding demands as a preferred obligation. This France now refuses to do, and therewith she not only retards European recovery but emphatically prevents herself from realising upon the securities which she holds, but which are absolutely non-negotiable pending a reorganisation of German finance."

But, observes the Newark News, bringing the responsibility nearer our shores, if "other countries should show a disposition to make sacrifices for the benefit of France, such as cancelation of their debts, France might be willing to cut the German reparations bill and be able to do it without any moral loss." "Every consideration of wisdom and farsighted policy that dictates the scaling down of reparations applies with equal force to the position of the United States with regard to the Allied debts," declares the Rochester Times-Union. The New York World, Dallas News and Richmond News-Leader all agree that the reparations question is bound up inseparably with that of the cancelation or readjustment of France's debt to the United States. And the New York Commercial argues that such readjustment will result "in much greater prosperity for this country."

But those who score France for the failure of the German loan project are told by the Providence Journal that they "overlook the fact that the present situation would never have come to pass if it had not been for Germany's maladroit maneuvering and flagrant deceit." "If Germany had dealt honestly with the reparations question, sought conscientiously to carry out the obligations to which she subscribed, and shown then that she could not meet them, France would before this have consented to terms and conditions she could meet." Therefore, continues the Utica Press, Germany and not France is responsible for the loan failure. The New York Times, the Washington Post, the San Antonio Light all agree that Germany's own conduct has been such as to make it almost impossible to arrange to lend her money. And so, remarks the New York Tribune, "back of every question vexing Europe—reparations, disarmament, economic readjustment and everything else—is the supreme question of Germany's moral regeneration. It has not come. This is a grave matter."

That the present impossible situation is all Germany's fault is naturally the view-point of President Poincare, who holds that if Germany had kept her governmental household in order she would now have no trouble in floating an international loan. As Mr. E. L. James cables from Paris to the New York Times, "after the German budget is balanced, after the Germans are taxed to the same degree as the French, and after the issue of paper money is halted, Mr. Poincare believes the bankers should be called back to talk again about the loan." France, continues the writer, "believes that Germany is showing bad faith"—

"She does not believe that Germany, with no foreign debt and with a fiduciary circulation at the end of the war approximating that of France per capita, was obliged to run into fantastic figures while France was reducing hers. She does not believe Germany is making a serious effort to meet her obligations."

"If peace were allowed to enrich Germany at the expense of France, it would spell defeat for the cause we have upheld together," said Premier Poincare as he turned to Ambassador Herrick, during his June 4 speech at Verdun. Some one remarked Ambassador Jusserand in a more recent speech in Chicago, must pay for reconstructing devastated France. When it comes to being lenient to Germany, he says, "it is a question of overloading the victim so as to spare the aggressor." To come down to brass tacks on this point, we note the following account of the situation as seen in French banking circles and reported by the writer of a Paris dispatch to the financial page of the New York Times:

"The French Government has already distributed more than 80,000,000,000 francs, repayment of which, according to the Peace Treaty, ought to be effected by Germany. This figure includes allowances to soldiers' families and war pensions; the reconstruction of the devastated area accounts for only about 45,000,000,000 francs.

"Out of this total, about 27,500,000,000 were paid out directly by the Treasury, 14,000,000,000 by the Credit National, and 3,500,000,000 borrowed by departments, towns and groups of inhabitants in the liberated territory. The state naturally provides interest and sinking funds for all these loans.

"France has thus far received from Germany about 1,500,000,000 gold marks, of which only 140,000,000 marks were in cash, the remainder consisting of deliveries in kind and requisitioning in the occupied territory. Further, it is pointed out that payments in cash and in kind barely suffice to cover the cost of occupation and deliveries of coal under the Spa agreement. At present Germany owes France nothing apart from the reparations debt, but France has not yet received a centime distinctly applicable to reparations."

America Annoys Bernhardi

A Review by
T. R. YBARRA

Deutschland's Heldenkampf, 1914-1918 (Germany's Heroic Struggle, 1914-1918), By General Friedrich von Bernhardi, Munich: J. F. Lehmanns Verlag.

America's action in the World War greatly annoyed Friedrich von Bernhardi. That most ultra-Prussian of Prussians, the man who wrote "Germany and the Next War" and coined the celebrated phrase, "World Power or Downfall," had thought out in his mind exactly the course for the Americans to follow. It was quite simple: The United States was to ally itself with Germany. Today, nearly four years after the armistice, von Bernhardi is still wondering why we did not do so. To him the reasons for such a line of action are so clear that he cannot conceive why they are not equally clear to all Americans.

Germany, he tells us, could not under any circumstances become a menace to America. Great Britain, on the other hand, undoubtedly could and would become a menace. The day was bound to come when Americans and Britons, both aiming at supremacy in world commerce, would come to blows. Therefore, what more natural than that America should side with Germany in the latter's attempt to put Great Britain out of business? How could the Americans be so obtuse as not to see it? The simple-minded old Prussian General shakes his puzzled gray head; verily, the ways of those strange Americans are past his understanding!

The same sort of bewilderment has him in his grip as he reviews, in his new guise of historian of the war, the series of awful things that have happened to Germany between 1914 and 1918. One thing becomes perfectly obvious in the very first pages of von Bernhardi's new book—when he wrote of "world power or downfall" as Germany's destiny in that "next war" which he prophesies he never thought for a moment that downfall would be her portion. Therefore, he is tremendously upset. Was not Germany the greatest military power on earth? Then, why did she not win?

As a military man, he asks himself the question and, as a military man, he answers it. Like Ludendorff, war is to von Bernhardi something purely military—or, if not quite that, at least military to such a great extent that all things political and economic must be treated, during wartime, much as the civilian population of a war zone is treated when it is hedged about by martial law and threatened with dreadful penalties if it forgets that the most important thing in the world for the time being is the man with a gun in his hand. Like Ludendorff, von Bernhardi gazes upon the ruins of German militarism and cannot believe that it could have been the reason why the war brought Germany downfall instead of world power. Like Ludendorff, he turns his eyes upon the Germany behind the front, and finds there the culprit whom he is seeking. Yes!—it was the German Government that lost the war for Germany, snarls von Bernhardi—the pusillanimous German Government, aided and abetted by "bullet-shy" deserters from the front, by socialistic agitators, by internationalists who realised perfectly that a German victory would mean a victory for militarism, and hence, a deadly setback to their schemes for an internationalistic new world.

Having damned these miscreants to his heart's content, the recalcitrant old Prussian veteran proceeds to wave the flag of militarism before the eyes of German youth. He exhorts it to keep alive the war spirit, to remember that only by the sword can fallen Germany win back what she has lost.

"In all our actions we must keep our eyes upon the fight of the future," he thunders, "so that, when the hour strikes, it may find us prepared. . . . All we Germans must train ourselves in arms and keep our arms in readiness!"

Little trace of a repentant Germany in those words!—as little as in the recent dictum of Ludendorff that Germany lost the war not because she was too Prussian but because she was not Prussian enough. Evidence that the militaristic spirit in Germany has been broken is to be found often enough nowadays in the masses of the German people, but not in the Die Hards of the old Prussian army.

The man who wrote "Germany and the Next War" is still thinking, despite 1918, of another "next war." He is bitterly regretting that he will be in his grave—or hopelessly aged—when it comes. That it will come he is absolutely certain. And he makes quite clear to those who read his history of the war of 1914-1918 that he ardently hopes for a "next war" in which the civil power in Germany will be the unquestioning slave of a military power swollen to even greater arrogance than the German militarism of 1914.

Von Bernhardi thinks that the Germans made many blunders in the military conduct of the war as well as in the field of internal government and diplomacy. The worst blunder of all, according to his way of thinking, was to assume that the Central Powers could ever win a sweeping victory over the Allies without first putting Russia out of the fighting. All their measures against Russia, he points out, were half-way measures; never was there a grand attempt made to crush her completely. Even assuming that it was the correct military policy to strike first at France in 1914, he writes, the subsequent operations against the Russians were radically wrong in conception, since they called merely for partial defeat of the Russian armies, never for their utter annihilation.

The great offensive begun by the Teutons on the Dunajec in May, 1915, is cited by von Bernhardi as a case in point. Originally there was no intention, he says, of pushing the break-through further than Galicia; only after the initial success was it decided by the German High Command to retake Lemberg and drive the German right wing northward, in conjunction with attacks from the other end of the line, which combined operation resulted in the taking of Warsaw and a whole string of other fortresses from the Russians. And even then a complete destruction of the Russian armies was not contemplated; when another chance for encompassing it came, says von Bernhardi, in the later operation around Vilna, it was lost because of inadequate preparations—"half measures."

Again such an opportunity came, he declares, in the early part of 1916, and here the German General Staff—then headed by von Falkenhayn—made what the grizzled old Prussian writer deems the worst of Germany's blunders. Instead of attacking with the avowed purpose of putting her completely out of the war, von Falkenhayn decided to attack Verdun. Von Bernhardi throws up his hands in disgust at the pig-headedness of this resolve. Verdun was assaulted, the Germans were bloodily repulsed. Persisting in their attacks long after they had become hopeless, they sacrificed tens of thousands of men. Simultaneously, the Allies launched their tremendous drive on the Somme, pounding the German lines there almost to breaking-point and using up masses of German reserves, while on the east front, Brusiloff, at the head of the rejuvenated Russian armies, smashed through the Austrian front, brought Austria-Hungary almost to her knees, and was kept from winning decisive victory only by further huge sacrifices of German troops.

Von Bernhardi, still looking at the war from an essentially military point of view and practically ignoring other factors, is of the opinion that, had Germany struck her main blow against Russia in 1916, she would have eliminated the Russian armies from the fighting, while, at the same time, maintaining her lines against the Allies in the west. There would have been no Brusiloff offensive in that case, and the great German offensive of 1918 on the west front could have been launched many months sooner than it was. But, owing to faulty leadership, 1916 was a most critical year for Germany, from which she emerged weakened and shaken, instead of as winner of the war. Thus von Bernhardi.

Another great German blunder, as he sees it, was the course followed by the Teutons in their attack on Italy in the Autumn of 1917. There, also, complete annihilation of the foe should have been aimed at, he declares. Instead, the Teutons broke through the Italian lines too far to the east to make such annihilation probable, and, moreover, so botched matters after they had got through that the bulk of the Italian armies escaped to the Piave and there made the successful stand which was later turned into a devastating offensive. Had the break-through been made further to the west—north of Verona, for instance—the entire Italian army would probably have been wiped out, thinks von Bernhardi, since it could scarcely have fallen back from its positions far to the eastward before the Teutons had got across every one of its possible lines of retreat.

And so on and so on—German war literature of the von Bernhardi school is a most impressive array of "ifs" and "buts."

Frank as he is concerning military mistakes on the German side, it is when he takes up Germany's political blunders that the old Prussian really waxes eloquent. Germany lost the war, he declares, because, in her hour of destiny, she lacked great statesmen. Each one of the men who sought to steer the German ship of state between 1914 and the end of the war comes in for his share of von Bernhardi's scathing disapproval. He writes:

In order to understand why, in spite of all, we made peace, voluntarily disarmed ourselves, and took upon ourselves the extremes of shame and disgrace, the key is not to be sought in the conditions already outlined by me, but in the domain of politics. What we lacked was men—those who were at the head of our Government were not men in the fullest sense of the word. They could never spur themselves to a thorough-going decision, but always got stuck half-way in the midst of half-measures. Bethmann Hollweg was a man of hesitation and careful balancing, not a man of action. He laid the foundation for our misfortune. Michaelis was not big enough for the conditions confronting him. Hertling was honest and upright, but an admirer of Bethmann Hollweg, and he did not see the dangers lying concealed in Germany's situation. He was a superannuated old man, not qualified for the bold, strong course which the situation demanded. The last Imperial Chancellor, Prince Max of Baden, was a weakling, who let events drive him, failed to keep his word, and finally lent himself to acts which, under other conditions, would have been branded as treason. . .

The Kaiser, although always inspired by the best intentions, unfortunately could not nerve himself to a great resolve and find the right road to a compromise, in Germany's hour of need, between politics and military action. Hindenburg was too exclusively a soldier to achieve anything really decisive. Moreover, his actions, whenever he wished to attain important ends, were too greatly hampered by the political leaders, who constantly intrigued against him and seldom met his wishes.

Only a coup d'etat in the direction of resolute political policy could have saved the situation, and there was no man available for accomplishing this.

Von Bernhardi is also much disgusted at the German method of U-boat warfare, which, he says, was conducted in such a manner as neither to crush England nor prevent America from entering the war. "Perhaps there is no sadder chapter in the whole war," he writes, "than the U-boat campaign, and with it the name of von Bethmann Hollweg is bound up in eternal disgrace."

After one grand final volcanic outburst against the Berlin Government, in which he parades in damning array all the heinous crimes which it committed during the war, the old Prussian soldier hands it this concluding slap:

"It considered that its principal work in the war was to fight against the leaders of the Germany army!"

"One leads where many follow."

Science And Superstition -:- Aztec Astronomy

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest.

"I, and relatives in Europe to whom I send your articles, would appreciate very much answers to the following questions:

"How do you account for the old Mexican, Aztec, year, which, as I understand, had about twenty-eight months of thirteen days each?

"If the earth is travelling in space is it travelling in a downward direction, and if so why, if other planets are doing the same, and are of different size and weight, does not one outdistance the other so as to be lost to our knowledge?—O. P. J."

The Aztecs divided the year into eighteen months of twenty days each. Every month consisted of four weeks of five days each. Thus they provided for three hundred and sixty days of the year. Then they added five complementary days, which, by the way, were regarded as especially unlucky—the dark god, Superstition, always claiming his share in all human inventions. Thus three hundred and sixty-five days were covered. But there remained nearly six extra hours by which the true tropical year exceeds three hundred and sixty-five days.

These Aztecs, who were, unquestionably a very savage race in many ways, but whose civilisation does not deserve the sneers that a school of modern formula-bound historians have cast upon it knew perfectly well what the real length of the year as measured by the sun was and they provided for those extra hours with an ease and accuracy that astonished and put to shame the Spaniards who conquered them with deadlier weapons of war.

Cortes landed in Mexico with Julius Caesar's reformed calendar. But the Aztecs had outdone Julius Caesar and his Greek astronomer, Sosigenes, so completely in reforming the calendar that the Spaniards, with all Europe's learning behind them, were nearly eleven days away from the true solar time, while this strange, western people, whom they were about to ride down with armed horses, ruled their time by a calendar that was only about two minutes in error by the sun! It was not until the new Gregorian reformation of the calendar, sixty years after Cortes destroyed the city of Mexico, that Europe caught up in that branch of science with the despised Aztecs. And a part of civilised Europe, including England, for many years wouldn't accept the correction when it was prepared for them!

The way in which the Aztecs had disposed of the problem was this: Their observations indicated that the surplus time remaining in the year after 365 days had been provided for could be almost exactly compensated by intercalating 12½ days every 52 years or 25 days every 104 years. The period of 52 years they called a "sheaf" or "bundle," and whenever a sheaf of years was completed the most solemn of all the Aztec festivals, that of the "year-binding," was celebrated. But here superstition again stepped in front of science.

From some dim tradition of ancient times they had derived the belief that some time or other, at the close of a sheaf of years, a destruction of the world would happen. They regarded such destruction as a periodical occurrence, and at each return of the great festival the entire population cleansed themselves and their houses, put out all fires, and at night marched in procession after the priests to a sacred hill, from whose summit the soothsayers anxiously regarded the stars.

If the glittering group of the sacred Pleiades mounted to the zenith and crossed the meridian in smiling safety, a signal fire was struck on the hilltop, and human victims were sacrificed there in the horrible Aztec manner, after which the rejoicing populace flocked home to relllumine their hearths and congratulate one another that the world was safe for at least one more sheaf of years.

The Aztec numeration system was vigesimal, or based on twenties; hence the twenty-day months, and the four weeks of five days each, four and five being convenient sub-multiples of twenty. They divided the fifty-two-year cycle, or sheafs, into four indictions of thirteen years each (there seems to have been some mystic signification attached to this number), and they had four hieroglyphics of the years, representing respectively a "rabbit," a "reed," a "flint" and a "house," which recurred in regular order; in an indiction, a "rabbit" year beginning and ending each set of thirteen forming the indiction.

There was a great deal of this kind of symbolism associated with the Aztec civil and religious calendars; and, as something more or less resembling it was known in the ancient Mongol, Tartar, Chinese, Egyptian and other Old World chronological systems, it has been guessed that the Aztecs originally came from across the great waters, as their own legends, indeed, affirmed.

In Prescott's "History of the Conquest of Mexico" you will find much on this subject, and you can get later discussions of it in the public libraries. Such studies are more than mere mental pastimes.

Your second question apparently refers to the motion of the whole solar system in a northerly direction. There is no reason to regard this as in any sense a falling downward. There is no definite "down" to be considered in such a case. The planets simply accompany the sun in this great flight, being held in orbital revolution around him as they all go on together.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"Your preparation known as Castoria I have used for years in children's complaints and have found nothing better."
JOHN J. LEPPA, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.

"I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy.
A. F. FEHLER, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"For several years I recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D., New York City.

"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, harmless effect and freedom from harm."
EDWARD PARDEE, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a meritorious household remedy. It is purely vegetable and acts as a mild cathartic. Above all, it does no harm, which is more than can be said of the great majority of children's remedies."
VICTOR H. COFFMAN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children, in fact it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."
J. A. PARKER, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.

Soldiers, Bandits Battle Over Loot

(China Press Correspondence)

Haichow, Kiangsu, July 15.—The rule of the military in North Kiangsu is not all that could be desired for there is little to choose between them and the bandits to whom the soldiers unblushingly sell ammunition.

In Suian the other day a sale of ammunition was to be consummated, the bandits' supply running short.

The agreement was that a battle should be staged. The soldiers were to drive the bandits headlong for a certain distance, then the tide was to turn and the soldiers were to retreat to their former position. The bandits were to find a certain quantity of the needed line of goods buried under a certain tree in a certain place on the contested ground.

So far so good, but the soldiers, in their retreat stumbled onto the bandits' cache of loot taken in a recent raid. The temptation was too great. The soldiers looted the loot and continued the retreat.

The bandits soon found out about the looted loot. Then there was a battle indeed in which several soldiers and several bandits found their last resting place.

Tokio Sees Big Military Saving

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 16.—The War Office has submitted its estimates for the approval of the Finance Department, according to the press, which declares that these provide for ordinary expenditure of Y.188,000,000 and extraordinary expenditure of Y.33,000,000, showing reductions of Y.14,000,000 and Y.26,000,000 respectively.

The new cuts are reported to be obtained from the withdrawal of troops in China, estimated at Y.24,000,000, from reorganisation Y.17,000,000 and from readjustment of administration Y.3,500,000, against which, however, must be placed increased expenditure on account of pensions and new arms.

Tokio, July 16.—The Naval estimates which, according to the press, have been submitted to the Finance Department, provide for ordinary expenditure of Y.120,000,000 and extraordinary expenditure of Y.198,000,000, showing decreases of Y.15,000,000 and Y.60,000,000 respectively.
